Marion Institute Will Probably Get $350,000

IMPROVEMENTS ARE EXPECTED INCLUDING ONE $20,000 HALL.

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 21.—In Marion Institute, at Marion, Ala., beneficiary of a three hundred and fifty thousand dollar donation, the junior is neither dead nor buried, but the rumor is based on good foundation, and there is every reason to believe the story.

Several days ago local papers received a story from Chicago to the effect that Mrs. Hetty Green had given out information that she made a donation to a Southern industrial school, but would not divulge the name of the institution.

When communicated with over long distance phone, H. D. Muriel, of the Marion Institute, would not deny nor confirm the report, but did it there that extended improvements were being contemplated.

Thursday plans were received by former students of the institute, together with a letter asking for contributions for a hall to cost $20,000, to be known as Alabama Hall. The cost of this building is estimated at $20,000, and the trustees desire to have the full amount in hand before the quadricentennial celebration next May, which will be the 16th anniversary of the foundation itself.

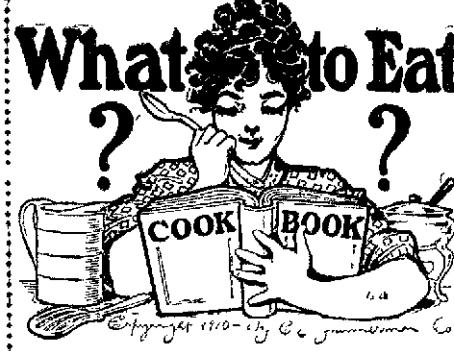

President George H. Dunn has already accepted the invitation to deliver the memorial address, and President Tait will be invited to deliver the inaugural address and to lay the cornerstone of the first building of an American plan for the white boys of Alabama and the South.

The authenticity of Hetty Green's donation is strengthened by the fact that the board of trustees is composed of a large number of Eastern and Northern men of great influence. Local friends of the institution are jubilant over the report.

pass it on to us. It is not what you eat that has alone to be considered—it is the quality of what you eat. It is easy to say "Let's have some special dish for dinner," but the mere buying of the materials for that dish does not make your dinner a success. You must have the best of everything to get the fullest enjoyment from the meal.

PACKERS LOSE FIRST TRIAL OF BIG CASE

ABSORPTION OF OTHER COMPANIES WILL BE INTRODUCED IN THE CASE.

Chicago Dec. 21.—The tea Cukago packers on trial for criminal violation of the Sherman law lost in the first skirmish of their trial today when Federal Judge Carpenter overruled the motion of the defense to strike out counts 2 and 3 of the indictment.

The court also ruled adversely on the motion to have the jury instructed to disregard the allegation of government counsel in the opening statement regarding the absorption of the Schwartzchild and Sulzberger Company and the New York Butchers Dressed Meat Company by the alleged packers' combination.

Defense attorney Blackington called attention to the charge accusing the defendant packers of performing a combination in restraint of trade between the years 1907 and 1910.

Early in his address he pointed out that the Supreme court of the United States had construed restraint of trade as meaning only those restrictions which were unreasonably and unreasonable.

Continuing Mr. Blackington said: "The necessary inference is that in between the low fixed price of cattle and the high and inflated fixed price of meat, the defendants have reached the enormous difference as their profit and that the public has accordingly suffered."

These in essence are the ultimate allegations. These allegations are specifically denied.

DO NOT PAY TRIBES

The defendants do not fix the purchase price of cattle by agreement. The purchase price is fixed by the market conditions which neither the defendants nor anyone controls or can control and that purchase price has risen steadily during the year.

The defendants do not fix and control sale price of fresh meat in the market. There is no one sold in direct competition with dozens of hundreds of competitors which make such a thing impossible and it is not in fact done. Nor is sale price of meat by the packers to the meat dealers inflated or excessive.

On the contrary fresh meat during the period covered by the indictment has been sold by the defendants on such close margin between retail cost to them and actual sale price that $1.79 will much exceed the average profit per head or cut down a quarter of a cent per pound will exceed the average profit on dressed beef.

Turnings Small
We will show that the defendants by the best business methods and the greatest economy have in fact earned less than 10 per cent per year on their actual money investment. We will show that the public has not suffered an injury but is helped a great deal by the business of cutters of the defendants.

In Brookline the drys won 318 to 10 for the legal sale.

The election passed off very quiet.

ESCAMBIA FARMERS ARE CHARGED WITH PEONAGE.

Mobile, Ala., Dec. 21.—Charged with committing peonage, in that they held in restraint three negro girls whom they forced to return to their plantations and work out a debt, James and William Mandy, white farmers of Escambia county, indicted by the last Federal grand jury, were brought to Mobile last night. The girls in the case are Lena Gandy and Eddie and Lula Williams. There are two counts against the Mandys. They were taken before a United States commissioner today and held under recognizance bonds for appearance in the United States District Court for trial on January 16. It is cited in the indictments that the girls left this farm of the Mandys, but were caught and whipped until they returned to work.

A WEEK TO CLEAN UP.

Under the "No-Paper-This Week" heading the Newark Star says: "We will take the week in cleaning up the office, and getting everything in shape for the new year."

We know that the Star office, like all other newspaper offices, accumulated a good deal of junk during the year, but had always thought that an office should be cleaned up more than once a year.

If the Star would take a suggestion from the Eagle, and have a semi-annual cleaning, say July and January, it would find that the plan would work much better, and the job would be done in half the time.

NOT DOUBTEN MAN.

The news editor of the Montgomery Times should be called down. In his issue of the 21, an article appears on the front page, under the heading, "Eight Dothan Men Arrested and Escaped."

The article refers to the eight citizens of Ashford who were arrested by United States marshals for their alleged connections with a bankruptcy matter in that town of some months ago.

Dothan has enough to answer for, without having all the things of South Alabama laid at her door, and the Times should come to the Wire-Glass and learn something of the country.

Ashford is ten miles from Dothan and is a quite town, amply able to take care of itself.

The Times articles say that the people arrested were "living in, or near that city, (Dothan)"

None of them live in Dothan.

WANTS A WHITE WAY.

A Dothan citizen who is always interested in good things for Dothan thinks we ought to have a great White Way, and to put the matter before the people, that they may be considering it, he writes the following article, which is worth considering:

"Several of our prominent citizens who have recently visited Atlanta and Birmingham, returned home in great praise of the White Way in those cities. It is a most beautiful sight to behold as it makes everything look as bright as day along the streets where these lights are located.

"We see no reason why the progressive business men of Dothan should not get together and have these lights installed on Poston and Main Streets. Nothing would advertise the city more than this, and the initial cost would be the greatest expense, which is not very much. We understand that the city would furnish the current provided the property owners or merchants would install the lights.

"We hope to see the question settled until Dothan will be in the front rank among the best lighted cities of the state."

THEY ALL GO AWAY

FROM HOME.

Dr. Charles Mayo, the famous Rochester, Minn., surgeon, has been overtaken.

For a dozen years he and his brother have been killing people from all over the world.

It is a pleasure for people to come from abroad, from every land and every clime, to have the Mayo Brothers cut something out of their anatomy.

The big surgeons go to Rochester, and take a front seat and watch the Mayos operate for hours and in weeks, and go back to their work feeling that they have learned more than they could at any other place.

Last week, Charles Mayo found that he had to take some of his own medicine. He had symptoms of appendicitis, and rushed himself off to New York, a thousand miles away to be split open by surgeons who had probably learned their art of him.

A layman might think that he would have preferred his own corps of surgeons at Rochester, supervised by his brother, but not so true to professional practice he went to another town, and found other surgeons for the work, and he was at the Presbyterian Hospital. Instead of taking treatment in his own elaborately furnished hospital, with specially trained surgeons and nurses.

The Mayo Brothers are the most famous surgeons in the country, so the profession says, and we believe it, but Charlie Mayo has lost out with us.

If he is sincere in his work, he should have taken the treatment at home, saying by that, that his enthusiasm as much brains and skill and nerve as the city of New York could.

We shall never go to Rochester for an appendicitis operation. Not since the big man there was not willing to risk himself.

JOHNSWALK SKETCHES.

By H. F. Runn.

Ponte de Leon was a Spanish nobleman who was endowed with a romantic temperament and a name which nobody has been able to pronounce without starting several feet back of the tape. While Ponte de Leon was living at home it became the custom to address by stand on one foot and reciting three times in rapid succession, which becomes so depressing that he disgraced his name and joined the Spanish navy. As the navy was composed for the most part of sailors, principally the sea variety, who were busy on Castle soup and long on masculinity. Ponte de Leon retired from the business and took a few hours in discovering from Cubans who had built up quite a trade and was able to obtain the title. On one journey Ponte de Leon discovered the State of Florida, which was being rapidly subdivided into town sites and five acre fruit farms capable of supporting a large family in luxury after the fifth year. At this time, however, Florida's chief industry was the culture of a mellow and companionable mosquito with a reversible sting which approached the sleeper with a hum like a sewing machine. In order to slow up this bird of prey Ponte de Leon invented the mineral water with which his fame in no continental connected and put up in two boxes for sale by all druggists, inserting a mild 30 per cent solution of alcohol, purely for medicinal purposes. The historian Bancroft tells us that this preparation would tone up a man's stomach until he couldn't tell his front gate from the Family Entrance. Ponte de Leon did a flourishing business until the pure food law blew him out, after which he started out to do a little more successfully. He was considerably surprised by being hurriedly killed in Cuba, by the Indians, but his name and formula survive.

UNDERWOOD ATTENDING TO BUSINESS.

Mr. Oscar W. Underwood, Chairman of the Wages and Means Committee, would like to have the Democratic nomination for President. He says as much in an interview which he gave out a day or two ago, but he hasn't asked anybody to help him get it and isn't going to. He has no time to go about this country telling the people this ought to nominate him. He has duties at Washington that keep him very closely and which take up all of his time.

If Mr. Underwood will stick to his job and make good he will please the people a great deal more than if he should travel about the country making speeches with the view of impressing the people with the idea that a great mistake would be made if he were not nominated for President.

Mr. Underwood's boom is very big yet, but there are indications that it is increasing volume. Every day his reputation as a statesman of ability and convictions is increasing and by the time the commanding convention meets there will be a good many people in all parts of the country who will have the idea that the Democratic party couldn't do a wise thing than to nominate him.

The delegation from his own state will be for him and it looks as if his name would go before the nominating convention. If there should be a deadlock—if neither Wilson nor Harrison nor any other one of the named candidates should be able to get the requisite two-thirds majority the probability is that there will be an almost irresistible movement to him.

The politicians do not look with favor on him for the reason, they say, that the North is against a Southern man for President, because Southern sentiment is against lavish pension expenditures, but there is more of this sort of talk in the South than in the North. If the truth were known it is probable that it would appear that there is a tremendous sentiment all over the north against the extravagant pension legislation which has marked Republican administrations.

It is hard to find a northern newspaper of influence that approves the Sherwood bill recently passed by the House, and against which Mr. Underwood had the courage to vote. The fact therefore that he is a Southern man and is against extravagant pension legislation, against giving away the public money by scores of millions of dollars annually to people who are not in need of assistance, would be of great benefit to him if he were a candidate. Notwithstanding that fact that Mr. Cleveland vetoed hundreds of pension bills and was violently opposed to reckless and extravagant pension legislation he was given a second term. His attitude on the pension question never lessened his popularity. And it is pretty certain that it wouldn't hurt Mr. Underwood as a presidential candidate. The fact that he is a Southern man isn't against his availability—Savannah Morning News.

DR. WILLIS ON COTTON SEED OIL.

Whenever a southern industry or a Southern product comes into conflict with a Northern industry or a Northern product, it is inevitable made the subject of a slanderous attack, and these attacks sometimes have the endorsement of partisans or officeholders, but not always.

In recent years the widespread growth, throughout the country in the use as food, in the products of cotton seed oil has been one of the most notable of industrial and trade development. Cotton seed oil, and its several by products furnish not only some of the cheapest articles of food in the area of high-priced living, but they furnish also, some of the healthiest and most attractive articles for the make up of a meal. The public of late years have recognized this fact, and as a result of this recognition the cheap, palatable and healthy cotton seed oil and its products are making their way against all the competition of the higher priced and less palatable articles, which they are supplanting.

The well informed men, knowing how successful the cotton seed oil has been in the open market against competitions, would have expected an assault against it by manufacturers of other articles, which are being supplanting. This came in the form of a news story from Washington, telling the result of investigations in the South by certain unnamed scientists into pellagra. Strange to say, some anonymous scientist had found that pellagra was caused by cotton seed oil, or, at least that is what the news story from Washington said. This news story was sent out on Sunday. Now every publicity agent, as well as every newspaper man knows, that Sunday is the best day on which to submit a story for publication, because usually the Monday morning papers have more space than the papers of any other day of the week. Theodore Roosevelt, skilled advertiser that he was, always sprung his sensations Sunday afternoon, to be sure that the newspapers would handle them in full on Monday morning.

The announcement that pellagra was connected with cotton seed oil made a good story—except that there was not a word of truth in it. But it found its way into a number of Southern newspapers, because the news editor had no time to investigate the story and on its face it looked like news. The Northern opponents of a Southern industry resort to this extent that the false statements sent out have led to another chapter.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the famous "Food Expert" of the Washington Bureau of Chemistry, heartily condemns cotton oil and its products when properly manufactured, as clean and nutritious articles of food. It is charged that Dr. Wiley sometimes condemns a food product when it should not be condemned, but it has never been charged that he commends as article of food when it should not be commended. When his hearty endorsement is put upon cotton seed oil and its products, the last word has been said.

Only parties financially interested in competing articles would dare set up a slander against this incontrovertible authority.

It is absurd and ridiculous to say that pellagra is caused, directly or indirectly, by the use of cotton seed oil. It is also slanderous to say that pellagra is exclusively a disease of the South. Cases of it have been discovered in Ohio, Indiana, and Kentucky. It is ridiculous to say that pellagra is a new disease. The oldest dictionary available, and which was published more than fifty years ago, contains the word "pellagra" and defines it as a disease, prevalent in Italy caused by eating impure or mouldy grain. It was even then recognized as an old disease—from the editorial columns of the Montgomery Advertiser of December 18th.

When a man goes to buy an article, he equally goes to a place where he thinks he will be fairly treated and calls for what he wants, and dickered but little about the price, knowing what he wants, but his wife trusts no one when she is shopping, and doesn't mind making a good deal of time making the selection, and in some instances, she will even send it back the next day.

We knew an old party once, who always came from town drunk, unless there was a trick in it. He drove up to his home one night, and his family let him spend the night in his buggy, but when they wanted to feed the next morning found that he hadn't come home drunk at all, but dead.

KING THE CITY BEAUTIFUL

100 New Ideas That Have Been Adopted by the Municipalities of Europe.

European cities are discarding the checkerboard street plan, says the New York World. Paris led the way Napoleon III's time when Baron Haussmann, prefect of the Seine, laid out diagonal avenues between important points and crowded sprawling boulevards. The sum of $150,000,000 was spent in this, and last year it was decided to route $75,000,000 more thereto.

London has done a similar but slower work to King's Way. The same cities are following neither checkerboard nor the radial averaging boulevard plan. They have now laid out streets so as to open up views and permit of collateral lots of parking and statuary.

Instead of locating their public buildings at random, the capitals of Europe arrange them with relation to each other and to some park, open air or boulevard, so that they contribute to one central effect. The like is the characteristic of Vienna, and the notable examples are Berlin's new, dan Linden and Lustgarten, Berlin's Kreuzberg, Dresden's Zwinger, the Louvre region of Paris and the Grande Place of Brussels.

In Dresden citizens have undertaken to enhance every landmark and to decorate parks, buildings and monuments with plants, vines, shrubs and window boxes. The authorities are cooperated by decorating municipal buildings, and at a small expense the summa aspect of the city is soon transformed.

The color sense has been indulged in all Russian cities. Building exteriors are of plaster to protect the rich from the frost, and every year these are repaired and repainted, and in blue, buff, green, white and gilt decorated with monograms are successfully employed.

Every important European city has regulations restricting the height of buildings, the width of balconies, the projection of cornices, the size of windows, and the character of lamps, signs, awnings, fences and doorways.

IN STUDY OF BOTANY

California Newspaper Pleads for Establishment of Special Garden for the Purpose.

The especial necessity of a botanical garden must appeal to us all. Every one having a 50 or 100-foot lot, who is trying to establish a beautiful home among us, must have wished at one time to make this home attractive by planting choice trees and shrubs about it, and would like the plants to be a little different, perhaps more beautiful, than the common ones to be seen around him. Not, however, having seen more than an occasional tree in a neighbor's garden that he particularly fancied, and having no means of learning the correct name, he must be content with what the nurseryman chooses to offer him, and if it should be some new and rare variety, he is ignorant as to what size it will attain, whether he will like the flowers, what space it will require to fully develop its individual beauty, and under what conditions it will flourish.

All these questions would be answered by a visit to a botanical garden, which would be a botanical dictionary with the most exquisite and truthful colored plates, colored by that hand of nature. A lettered hand would give the name, family, species and native home. We would learn how very few of the thousands of beautiful things we here enjoy.—Los Angeles Times.

Demand for Good Streets.

With the general use of the automobile came the demand for the best of streets and roads, a demand that cannot be suppressed and will not be denied. The more one loves nature, the more he appreciates that which enables him to see the most and best of it. In the automobile, on a good street or road, one is able to enjoy the beauties of both garden and field, unhampered by clouds of dust or the rule of jolting. Incident to travel over "natural" (?) dirt roads. We have to thank the automobile for our present good roads, and many have to thank the good roads for having an automobile (intact).

Uniform Planting.

The trees upon each street should be of one kind, equal distances apart and, if in ordinary parkways, in a straight line. When we get really sensible in street building we shall have narrow driveways in residence districts, with correspondingly wider parkways. Then shall we have informal plantings of street trees and shrubbery masses, with all subjects enjoying perfect health through being in nearly natural conditions as regards air, water and surrounding vegetation, trees, etc.

Song With a Swing.

Bill—That new song of mine I wrote in a hammock.

Clothes To Be Made from Cloth on Iron Pans Over It.

It took two Iowa men to design the little implement produced here, but they turned out a clever device. It is a cloth folder for ironing, and will turn either one or two home in a piece of cloth as the iron passes over it.

Clothes Folder.

The goods and smoothing it down. A small piece of metal, narrower at one end, has its sides turned under to form grooves. The forward end has a slot so the back of the iron rests, and the rear end has a tongue turned down through the center to act as a guide. This will either fold one edge of a large piece of cloth or both edges of a narrow strip. In either instance the iron passes over the slot as it is turned down and presses it flat. Where cloth is folded by hand it is impossible to obtain the accurate edge given by this little implement, and the work takes a great deal longer to accomplish.

Marriage Problems.

During the Christmas rush for marriage license that's keeping the probate clerks busy, this week many interesting little incidents come up, as usual with any line of business that has a suggestion of matrimony with it, and the crowning feature of yesterday's work in that line of business took place when a serious faced man strolled into Judge Crawford's office bent on getting married, and doing so as cheaply as possible. As any one knows, there is no law business connected with the officials of a probate office and if you want a cut price on legal business you are in the wrong law especially if you intend to get married. Well, the idea was that this serious faced man wanted to get it over for him and his intended bride and offered the Judge $1.50 for the same, but there was nothing doing for him as the last legislature said for the officials to get $1.75 for the permit to be joined in holy matrimony in this state, that is the pursuit from the state, and not from the girl's old man for that would be another story. Upon being informed of this the serious faced man still bent upon marrying became indignant and declared that he had known other men to get license for $1.50 and didn't in any reason why he should be charged the extra two bits. The Judge informed him that the license would be worth $1.75 or nothing and that although business was good this week that there was no cut price policy going on in that department of the office of justice. Well, declared the man, I won't take them at that price and if you don't come down a quarter we can't get up a trade.

Well, spoke up Judge Crawford. We won't trade them, and you will have to go to some other dealer if you can't reach our terms.

All during this time the serious faced man got 'more serious' and it seemed at times that he was really angry about the fact that he was paying a quarter more than his neighbor had paid for the same license. Then he threw a little (probably he thought about her) and asked for an explanation saying Tell me will you why is it that license are so much higher now than ever before?

Well, patiently explained the license merchant. The last legislature passed an act requiring us to make a report as to the age, height and other specifications of the couple that get license to the state board of health for this report we are allowed to charge an extra fee of 25 cents.

Then the poor olive purchaser began to roar. I don't know anything about the health of this girl I want to marry, I'll tell you that right now he exclaimed and furthermore I don't care where it's any of your business or of your clerks business what kind of health she is in. Just so she's able to marry me. I demand that you sell me the license for $1.50 and that you do it now.

I refuse, calmly stated the Judge. Then the man who was bent on marrying who from the drive of the scene seemed to be of the opinion that the probate officials were trying to fleeces him for the two bits wrangled a document from his pocket that looked like the declaration of independence and began to recite the names of the winos of the little affair. Well, the whole number by this time & in enjoying the scene so much that it was a real sight with their faces in the vault to prevent embarrassing outburst that might be caused by the little box. But they shush! I cut and were at the seat of the rattling strangled. The name of the Justice who was just 34130, a and so on until the man recited well known name, took another of this city who I always had a fond enjoyment of, not who but still giving his right condition was uttered in clear and distinct words the lengthy name of Joseph Quillenham R. J. D. No. 7. Gribbles.

He took the wallet several minutes to search the long name off and so it came near taking up all that was left of the blank space on the mid declaration of independence sheet but he finally managed to get it of a part of it. Again something seemed to come over him (probably another thought of her) and little by little he began to thaw out. Yes, there was a sign of a than in all directions. A slight smile crept over his face and his hand crept into his pocket and when it came out a long leather bag came with it. Then came the dollar and six bits. I guess I'll take them, Judge, he said as if the thought of what she would say in case he came back without the paper, and as the other began to ask the necessary questions the answer came back readily in clear and anxious tones.

In a short time he was on his way to his waiting bride. The license in his pocket! the dollar and six bits in the cash drawer of the probate office and he appeared in every way a winner but by no means a sudden man. An illustration of one among the many problems of matrimony

SAYS OUR MUSIC IS TRASHY

Dr. Brunner of Berlin Declares Ragtime Will Drive Us All Crazy—It Jams Nerve Centers

Los Angeles (Cal)—That Ragtime music will eventually drive the American public crazy because of its effect upon the nerve centers and brain cells of the human system and that it is mainly responsible for many business failures and cases of hopeless insanity is the belief of Dr. Ludwig Brunner, late instructor in the German academy of medical research at Berlin who arrived here recently.

Your ragtime always jars the nerve centers and causes an irritation of the brain cells, says the doctor. While the roll and stamp of ragtime is exhilarating to the senses and acts as a stimulant, it has the after effects of an injurious drug that will eventually stagnate the brain cells and wreck the nervous system.

I have been in this country several months and everywhere I have visited in New York, Chicago, New Orleans and San Francisco the little mind is crazy with ragtime.

If something be not done the class of the long ago will be a thing of the past entirely and they will be singing national hymns in ragtime.

Science of Feeding

The feeding of fowls has become as much a science as has the feeding of dairy or beef cattle. Poultrymen have their balanced rations for their fowls. They feed especially for egg production, growth and fattening purposes. The farmer too often feeds for convenience and relies on corn to produce all the above requirements, hence the poor results on many farms. Variety is the upshot of life, in the poultry yard as well as with humans.

MAKING MONEY WITH DUCKS

Properly Fed on Sweet, Clean Grain and Pure Water Fowl Products Egg That is Delicious

Nearly all good eaters in England and on the continent relish duck eggs even more than the home eggs.

Properly fed on sweet, clean grain, grain stuff with pure water the duck produces eggs that are delicious.

The Indian Runner duck lays better eggs than the Pekin although the latter is in greater favor in the United States, doubtless because of its pure white color.

Pastries cooks in hotels and restaurants prefer duck eggs and some persons who have learned how to make an ordinary neck look beautiful and a pretty one even more so. This is one of the handsomest pieces of jewelry ever worn and we have set a price that will leave us without one in stock.

table they are buy them but there is a decided prejudice against duck eggs in the general market.

Duck raisers can remove this prejudice by judicious advertising in the local papers setting forth the advantages of duck eggs and advising as to their palatability.

The Indian Runner is almost as large as the Pekin at ten weeks, although the latter is more heavily feathered and this gives it a larger appearance.

Runner ducks do not need water to swim in but should always be provided with clean water for drinking and if this can be running water so much the better.

NEGRO SHOWS CRUELTY.

BY HENRYING HORN.

Gadsden, Ala., Dec. 21.—In the arrest of Minnie McMillan, a negro, one of the most shocking examples of negro cruelty on record has been revealed. She is charged with torturing her 5 year old adopted boy with a red hot iron to punish him for some slight wrong which at most would have only called for a whipping. Neighbors say that the iron was put to the child until he screamed and writhed in agony and then imposed later unconsciousness. The child cannot be found. The woman claims she took him to Chatanooga and placed him in a foundling asylum. An investigation is being made.

TUSCALOOSA NEGRO BILL.

NOT GO TO GALLows TODAY.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Dec. 21.—Frank Richardson, the negro condemned to hang tomorrow for the killing of Brown Morton, a member of the posse which was in pursuit of Rich Galloway, who had just killed former Deputy Sheriff Tom Cooper, will not hang tomorrow because of the fact that Governor O'Neal has granted a reprieve of sixty days. During that time the state pardoning board is expected to take up Richardson's case at the request of Tuscaloosa's leading citizens. Owing to the peculiar condition of the killing of Tom Cooper, it is said the sentence may be changed.

Governor Hooper indicated to legislators to grant a number of conditional pardons as a result of his first hand study of Tennessee prison life.

Prof H. B. Holmes, of the Houston county High School of Columbia was here last night.

HOMETOWN HELPS

TREES AS CIVIC ORNAMENTS

Here is a Case Where Municipal Control Would Seem to Be a Necessity.

Uniformity may be obtained only through municipal control, for when planting is done by property owners individual choice will naturally have a wide range and fall upon a great variety of subjects, resulting in the least desirable effect possible except bare streets. Where the building lots are of varying widths many of the trees will be too close together, while others are apt to be too far apart as we very generally overplant. Here is another feature easily remedied by municipal control through arbitrarily giving the proper space to each tree. On narrow streets home owners will put in planting trees spaced evenly to the wider thoroughfares, until a tall furniture can easily pass through the green tunnel.

Where sidewalks are narrow and buildings close up to them the trees will have to be planted close to the street curb no matter how wide the parkway else the tops will have no room to spread and all the trunks will lean toward the street. Here a small tree is necessary not only to avoid the last noted effect but also to prevent overshadowing the front windows of adjacent buildings. In such districts as the one under discussion owners are also overfull of filling in the parkways with cement leaving too little breathing space for trees. With parkways already too narrow the whole space is insufficient to allow of the best growth of trees and therefore parkways should not be unnecessarily reduced. Some eastern cities require no less than six square feet about the base of each street tree.

When trees are to be bought one should be able to sharply distinguish between young thrifty stock and do not buy root bound specimens which are unfortunately more common with our nurseries than vigorous healthy subjects. What use is it to plant trees whose roots have for years been playing merry go round in a gallon fruit can? Hable and forms fixed while young are apt to endure, even though somewhat modified to the end. Such trees should be dug around after being in position for a year and the top roots cut close to trunk allowing a deeper and better root system to develop. Do not forget that all conditions may be improved and much better results obtained by digging large deep holes for all trees.

NATURAL LINES THE BEST

Formality in laying out of Public Parks Soden's Productive of the Desired Effects.

The absence of a general plan or a failure to comprehend and follow it will result in the hedge-edges of inconsiderate law offices seen in parks. The portions which should be natural are often artificialized unnecessarily by gardening operations, or by the indiscriminate use of hedges, lawns and all sorts of artificial ornaments while the portions which might, in harmony with the taste to which they are set, be imitated and decorated in a formal style are not so informed. On the other hand in the portion of a park merely devoted to extensive and complete formal beds of border plants and flowers the daffodils and tulips, larkspur shrubs and tree plantations will often be artificially informed. A good plan may provide places where the beauty of formal beds of border plants and other gardening material may be enjoyed individually and collectively and places where those which are incompatible with each other may be separated by a systematic arrangement of plantations, walls, white flowered shrubs, or blossoming bushes, trees, and the like yet will then enter into part of a complete whole.

Many Little Tricks Which Save Much Work—Easy Way to Wash Oil Cloths and Linen-Cloths—The Next Day

Have your strength by sitting while preparing the vegetables etc. An old kitchen stool which can be adjusted to the right height is far better than a kitchen chair and can slide under the table when not in use.

I discovered that the glass bottle stopper which I had entirely reduced to a looped yielding very readily when I held the neck of the bottle over the flames of a candle (or match) and turned it until it was evenly heated.

Save all the oil paper that comes in your candy boxes and use them to line the cake pans. In connection with this, if pans are thick, sprinkle the bottom with flour to prevent burning.

I have discovered a way to wash clothes and linens without the trouble of wringing out of a mop. Over an old broom I place a bag with a white airing at top. It is easily removed and washed. By keeping one or two dry bags for wiping the floor will be highly satisfactory. A large surface can be thus washed with the smallest amount of labor. Flour bags (cloth) are excellent for this purpose. One large one making two bags.

By wearing high shoes in the house with good square heels I find, when night comes I am not nearly as tired as when I wear slippers, the reason being that the shoes support the ankles.

One tired day each week is my rest day. Meals are planned before hand. My friends refrain from calling. My meals are sent up to me when I choose to be out. Anything needed that day is attended to by the family. I am as free as though I were miles from home. I sleep as late as I wish and sometimes I spend the day in bed. On spilling ink on the carpet, I rush for the salt completely covering the spot. As soon as that is done black I put more on top of it and continued to do so until the top layer remained white.
